Opiate

it's kicking in the opiate I take to force a grin and stop this ache beneath my skin I feel so fake I can't begin to so much as partake of mortal sin I can't seemingly shake my identical twin such a headache

> I feel boxed in wide awake I work within to try to break habits I've forbidden and striving to unmake all the mistakes therein and begin to forsake my overgrown sheepskin I'm stomping on the brake to stop this maddening tailspin poison in my intake tugging at my linchpin starting to flake I belong in a loony bin 'cause I'm such a fruitcake drowning in my chagrin practically opaque I'm dangerously thin but I've spoken what I could spake